FIGHT OVER THE KING'S CARNIVAL

Mrs. Brady, Assistant to Miss McCloskey, is Arrested. Stormy Hearing before Squire Harnish Results in Financial Settlement.

The King's Carnival of Friday evening had an interesting sequel Saturday night when the Y. M. C. A. management, fearing that the organization would not get its share of the profits had Mrs. Brady, chief aide to Miss Elizabeth McCloskey, the trainer for the attraction, arrested on a charge of embezzlement just as she was about to board the 5.45 Western Maryland train.

A two hour hearing before Squire Harnish followed and proved to be the most entertaining court matter yet held within the jurisdiction of that justice. Center Square in front of Squire Harnish's office held, during the evening, the greater part of the "troupe" and the two women were the talk of the town Saturday and Sunday.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE
The trouble came about thusly. Miss McCloskey came here and entered into an agreement with George C. Fissel, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. to put on "The King's Carnival." Later Mrs. Brady, a friend of Miss McCloskey, appeared upon the scene and during her stay got up an advertisement program took charge of the moneys received from it and the play and in numerous ways made herself conspicuous. Friday evening Mrs. Brady took all the money at the box office and when Saturday arrived the Y. M. C. A. management and the two women could not reach terms of settlement which were satisfactory.

The contract signed by Miss McCloskey and Mr. Fissel had numerous loop holes for the former as for instance charge of the funds, when payment should be made, "etc." as one of the items of local expense, and so on. Now Mr. Fissel discovered that a revenue of $32.00 had been obtained from the advertising program secured by Mrs. Brady. Mr. Fissel claimed that that amount should be counted as part of the gross receipts of the show, the contract calling for each party to receive fifty per cent of the net proceeds.

Miss McCloskey demurred on this as she claimed the Y. M. C. A. had not contributed in any way toward securing the ads for the program but she finally consented to enter it as a part of the gross receipts if Mrs. Brady's hotel bill, $16.00, would be entered as a part of the gross expenses. This the Y. M. C. A. refused to do claiming they had made no contract for Mrs. Brady's services.

Numerous other differences arose over the accounts, the women and the young men having several right warm conferences Saturday morning and afternoon. No agreement was reached and when it was found Mrs. Brady was going to leave town a warrant for her arrest was quickly secured and placed in the hands of Chief Shealer who prevented the woman's leaving.

THE HEARING

Then came the hearing in Squire Harnish's office. George J. Benner, Esq. represented the Y. M. C. A. while the women claimed they did not care for counsel. Later they admitted they had made a mistake. In a few moments Mr. Benner established, to the Squire's satisfaction, that the embezzlement charge was well founded and the commitment of Mrs. Brady to Sheriff Fissel's care was announced under a compromise could be effected.

Then the arguments came thick and fast. There was talk of filthy thighs returned for the cleaning of which the local boys did not wish to pay, claiming that they had been dirty when received. The Court was invited to inspect the aforesaid thighs but declined the pleasure. The McCloskey-Brady aggregation wanted to collect express on costumes from Hanover to Gettysburg and from Gettysburg to Martinsburg, their next stand, and said they collected express in and out everywhere they went.

There were many sidelights on the hearing. Mrs. Brady frequently making quite an exhibition of herself while both women took occasion to give their opinion of town and its inhabitants.

But the matter was finally settled. The Y. M. C. A. agreed to allow $11.00 of Mrs. Brady's hotel bill to be included in the general expense account but refused to allow any expressage to be included. The costs were divided, Miss McCloskey standing two-thirds of the $3.95 and the Y. M. C. A. one third. This gave the Y. M. C. A. a $58.22 net. They originally claimed $65.20.

Mr. Fissel retired with Mrs. Brady firing as a final shot "You'll hear of this again if it takes a thousand years to get it back on you."

WILL SUE FOR DAMAGES

Mrs. Brady after the hearing engaged the services of J. L. Butt, Esq.,

ADAMS' INJURIES RESULT FATALLY

Charles Adams Run over by Freight Car here on Saturday Died that Night in Harrisburg Hospital. Funeral in Bendersville.

Charles Adams, the Philadelphia and Reading brakeman who fell in front of a box car near the Reading station on North Washington street Saturday afternoon, died in Harrisburg at nine o'clock in the evening from his injuries.

Immediately upon his arrival at the Harrisburg Hospital from a hurry trip on a special from Gettysburg, surgeons determined to amputate the one limb below the knee and a portion of the other foot but the unfortunate brakeman's sufferings were so great that the operation could not be performed. Mr. Adams died without losing consciousness.

On the way to Harrisburg he said that all he wanted was to get home, bid his family good-bye and then die for he did not want to live and he a helpless cripple. He lived about six hours after his arrival at Harrisburg and his family were at his bedside soon after he reached the hospital.

Mr. Adams was well known in Gettysburg where he and his wife have a number of friends. His father, a veteran of the Civil War, recently went to Harrisburg to make his home with the son. Beside the father and wife, two young children survive.

The body was brought to the home of his father-in-law, Jacob Snyder, at Gardners this afternoon, from where the funeral will be held Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. Interment in Bendersville cemetery.

FOR MEMORIAL DAY

All the pupils and teachers of the public schools are requested to meet at the High Street building Tuesday afternoon promptly at 1 o'clock to form in line for the parade. Bring along all the flowers that can be obtained.

The Grand Army Post desires as many flowers as possible be taken to the Post Room before noon Tuesday. Flowers are scarce and there will be some difficulty about getting enough for the strewing.

All members of the P. O. S. of A. are requested to meet at the lodge rooms at one o'clock sharp, on Tuesday.

Post office hours for Memorial Day—Office will be open from 11:00 a. m. to 12:00 m., and from 6:00 to 6:30 p. m. City carriers will make one delivery and collection at 9:40 a. m. No delivery by rural carriers. C. Wm. Beales postmaster.

DISTRICT CONVENTION

The second annual district Sunday School convention which was held at Orrtanna Friday, May 26, was largely attended and very interesting. The following ministers were present, Rev. D. T. Koser, Arentsville; Rev. J. J. Hill, Littlestown; Rev. E. W. Stonebraker, Fairfield; and Rev. J. W. Forrest, Ronzerville. Messrs. Baer and Wintrose, of Littlestown, were also present introducing before the convention some new ideas for Sunday School work.

POSTMISTRESS RESIGNS

Edna V. Plank has handed in her resignation as postmistress at Arentsville, to take effect July 1st, 1911. A United States Civil Service examination will be held in Biglerville on Saturday, June 24th, for the position of Fourth Class Postmaster at Arentsville where applicants wishing to take the examination can get the necessary blanks.

LOST HIS LIFE IN SAVING DOG

John Slothouer, of Near East Berlin, Dies in York Hospital from Injuries Sustained while Trying to Get Dog from Path of Machine.

The love of a man for his dog took its toll Saturday when John Slothouer, of near East Berlin, died in the York hospital from injuries sustained by being struck by an automobile on Wednesday evening near his home.

Mr. Slothouer, who is aged about 70 years, was walking along the public highway last Wednesday evening with his dog, when George Gise, also of East Berlin, happened along in his automobile. The dog ran in front of the machine and in an attempt to save the animal from injury, Mr. Slothouer stooped over to catch it by the neck. He was struck on the head by the automobile, later being taken to the York hospital, where all efforts were made to save his life. Death was due to injuries sustained and diabetes.

Mr. Slothouer was never married. He leaves five brothers and one sister, Solomon, of Abbotstown; Joseph, of Dillsburg; Henry, of Round Top; George, of Harrisburg; Elias, of Xenia, Kansas; Mrs. Lydia Ann Skidmore, of Cana City, Iowa.

Funeral at ten o'clock Tuesday morning at Abbotstown conducted by the Rev. F. C. Sternat.

ONE HUNDRED CONFIRMED

On Sunday the Sacrament of Confirmation was administered in the church of St. Francis Xavier by the Right Rev. J. Shanahan D. D. The preparatory retreat was kept by the Rev. Father Conahan, of Fairfield. The seven o'clock mass was said by the Right Rev. Bishop who preached on the gospel of the day. The high mass at ten o'clock was sung by Rev. John McGovern, of Mt. Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, after which the Bishop confirmed a class of 100 candidates. The Rev. Father McIlhenny, of Bonneauville, and the Rev. Father Reuter, of McSherrystown, assisted the Bishop.

The sponsors were Doctor and Mrs. C. E. Eckenrode. At three o'clock in the afternoon, vespers were sung and solemn benediction given by the Right Rev. Bishop. Owing to the illness of the pastor, Rev. T. W. Hayes, the May procession was omitted.

WON FROM MANY LARGE COLLEGES

Two Gettysburg College Track Men Bring Back Four Medals from Big Meet. Local Teams Lose Four Baseball Games.

At the annual Pennsylvania intercollegiate track meet at Harrisburg Saturday Gettysburg College had two men entered and they brought back four medals and fifteen points, competing with the following institutions Lafayette, Lehigh, Bucknell, Dickinson, University of Pittsburg and Carlisle Indians.

Leathers won the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard dash with ease and was awarded a gold medal for each. He led the first race by four yards and trotted way ahead of his nearest competitor in the 220 dash. Miller entered in the hammer throw and the discus, getting second place and a silver medal in the former and third place and a bronze medal in the latter.

The base ball team was less fortunate, meeting defeat at the hands of Dickinson at Carlisle by a score of 7 to 3. The tennis team tied with Dickinson at Carlisle.

The town Y. M. C. A. team played their first game Saturday at Emmitsburg and lost 3 to 2. The game was exciting though loosely played. Unfair decisions are said to have contributed to the defeat. The same story is brought back by the college team from Carlisle.

The Prep base ball team lost to York High School 11 to 2. An unfortunate incident occurred during this game when Hashinger, a Gettysburg boy, was tripped while running and falling heavily on his shoulder sustained a broken collarbone. He went to the York hospital for treatment.

In one of the most exciting games of base ball ever played on the Fairfield diamond Fairfield defeated the Sophomore team of Gettysburg college by a score of 3 to 2 in a thirteen inning game Saturday afternoon. The Sops took the lead in the first inning when they made one run. Fairfield did not score until the seventh when they tied the score. Each team made a run in the ninth. Fairfield winning in the thirteenth on an overthrow ball to third base. Diehl pitched for the Sops; Swope for Fairfield. Umpires, Harbaugh and Moore.

DRIVING ACCIDENT

Mrs. Elmer Rentzel and young son, who live on the J. L. Williams farm, were participants in a driving accident on the Bonneauville road two miles from town while on their way to church at Gettysburg Sunday. Their horse took fright at a motor cycle and upset the buggy throwing both occupants out and bruising them badly. Dr. Hartman rendered the necessary attention. The buggy was badly damaged. The horse was caught after running a little distance.

BUSY SUNDAY

Sunday was a busy tourist day in Gettysburg. A party of several hundred from Newark left in the afternoon under a two days' visit. The Reading brought five hundred from Norristown and vicinity. Both roads brought a number on their regular trains and automobile parties were unusually numerous.

MRS. A. J. DREXEL.

is Said to Have Left Millionaire Husband.

WON'T DISCUSS DIVORCE PLANS

Mrs. A. J. Drexel Separates From Husband.

Philadelphia, May 29.—Rumors of application for divorce by Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, wife of the financier, current for several weeks, are still unconfirmed.

Since her arrival in Philadelphia Mrs. Drexel has been living in retirement, refusing to discuss the reported separation from her husband, even with her closest friends.

Friends of the Drexels are responsible for the story that Mrs. Drexel came to America for the express purpose of consulting her private attorney, and say that she will return to London June 3.

A dispatch from Baltimore, where the wife of the Philadelphia millionaire is staying with friends, reads as follows:

"Mrs. A. J. Drexel is in retirement in Baltimore as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cabell Bruce. Mrs. Bruce is a school girl intimate of Mrs. Drexel, who as Miss Margarita Armstrong was one of the belles of Baltimore.

"The intimacy has since been kept up and Mrs. Drexel's flight to this city is ascribed to her desire to avoid notoriety arising from the report of her proposed divorce suit.

"Mr. Bruce, who was formerly city solicitor, and is now counsel to the public service commission, is acting as advisor to Mrs. Drexel and standing as a buttress against interviewers.

"Mr. Bruce was courteous itself, but would neither deny nor affirm the report of the intended suit or make any statement whatever. He admitted that Mrs. Drexel had seen the report, but said she desired to make no statement."

WILSON'S BOOM STRENGTHENED

Friends Say Tour Clinched Nomination For Presidency.

TALKED TO BIG AUDIENCES

Friends of Clark and Harmon, However, Are Hard at Work For Democratic Nomination.

Washington, May 29.—Those Democratic leaders about the capital who are hailing with delight the signs of the advancement of the boom of Governor Woodrow Wilson are professing the utmost satisfaction over the outcome of the trip of Governor Wilson to the west.

They declare that this trip has gone a long way to clinch the nomination of Mr. Wilson by the Democrats in 1912.

Governor Wilson has undoubtedly been talking to big audiences in the west, and he has been received with many marks of favor, according to all the reports. And it may be added that some of the Democratic politicians in Washington have been at a good deal of pains to ascertain the facts.

The reasons for this are sufficiently obvious. Those who want Wilson nominated are eager to find out how his boom is being received, and those who want Harmon or Clark are for opposite reasons quite as eager.

The advices that have come to the Wilson camp in Washington are that the governor while in the west has succeeded in getting the ear of both the progressive Democrats and the conservative Democrats. He has been given due recognition by various civic bodies.

In his speeches he has not trimmed, so his admirers say, and has not talked one doctrine strong in one quarter and put the soft pedal on it in another quarter.

Lambasted "Big Business."

They cite the fact that in a speech at a banquet in San Francisco Wilson lambasted some of the practices of big business so hard that one of the bankers of the city arose in his place and said:

"I am not guilty of any of these things that Dr. Wilson is pointing out."

However, the question of whether Wilson was received with exuberance or not is not of as much practical importance as the question whether he is going to get delegates as the result of his swing around the circle.

If the statements of the friends of Wilson are correct, he is going to capture a large bunch of delegates from the Pacific coast and the far northwest.

Word has come from California Democrats, from men whose promises are of weight and value, that he can have the delegation from that state. Oregon is said to be for Wilson without question and also Washington. Whether Idaho will be is not so certain, but the Wilson men think the same influences that have stirred Democratic opinion along the Pacific coast to be for Dr. Wilson will sway Idaho.

In the south there is no question that Wilson has lately been gaining. He has been making many inroads in the Champ Clark strength there, to say nothing of the Harmon strength. Georgia, Virginia, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky, North Carolina and Florida are said to be almost certain to line up for Wilson.

The recent letter of Senator Gore makes it practically certain that Oklahoma will be for Wilson.

When it comes to the east, Wilson is going to have a good hold there. The fact that Senator O'Gorman, of New York, is a Wilson man is going to weigh much with the Democrats of that state.

In the progressive states of the middle west, Wilson may reasonably hope for a large following. This is due to the fact that Bryan is friendly to Wilson and to the fact that the west has come to look on Wilson as progressive.

Nomination Not "Clinched."

While Wilson is making progress in his campaign to capture the presidential nomination, this does not mean that he has the nomination in his grasp, that he has, in the words of the immortal T. Roosevelt, the nomination "clinched."

The Clark supporters are active, and they are quite certain the next convention is going to recognize the services of Mr. Clark as speaker of the house. And the Harmon supporters are also extremely active. Indeed, there is evidence that the Harmon forces have done a surprising lot of gumshoeing about the country and have got all manner of Democrats hitched to the Harmon chariot by pledges.

Elevator Falls; Man Killed.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 29.—Nicholas Miller was killed and Frank Blakeslie fatally injured when the elevator at the Flatiron hotel, this city, fell from the roof of the building to the pit. Blakeslie and Miller were repairing the elevator when the accident occurred.

Washington, May 29.—Those Democratic leaders about the capital who are hailing with delight the signs of the advancement of the boom of Governor Woodrow Wilson are professing the utmost satisfaction over the outcome of the trip of Governor Wilson to the west.

They declare that this trip has gone a long way to clinch the nomination of Mr. Wilson by the Democrats in 1912.

Governor Wilson has undoubtedly been talking to big audiences in the west, and he has been received with many marks of favor, according to all the reports. And it may be added that some of the Democratic politicians in Washington have been at a good deal of pains to ascertain the facts.

The reasons for this are sufficiently obvious. Those who want Wilson nominated are eager to find out how his boom is being received, and those who want Harmon or Clark are for opposite reasons quite as eager.

The advices that have come to the Wilson camp in Washington are that the governor while in the west has succeeded in getting the ear of both the progressive Democrats and the conservative Democrats. He has been given due recognition by various civic bodies.

In his speeches he has not trimmed, so his admirers say, and has not talked one doctrine strong in one quarter and put the soft pedal on it in another quarter.

Lambasted "Big Business."

They cite the fact that in a speech at a banquet in San Francisco Wilson lambasted some of the practices of big business so hard that one of the bankers of the city arose in his place and said:

"I am not guilty of any of these things that Dr. Wilson is pointing out."

However, the question of whether Wilson was received with exuberance or not is not of as much practical importance as the question whether he is going to get delegates as the result of his swing around the circle.

If the statements of the friends of Wilson are correct, he is going to capture a large bunch of delegates from the Pacific coast and the far northwest.

Word has come from California Democrats, from men whose promises are of weight and value, that he can have the delegation from that state. Oregon is said to be for Wilson without question and also Washington. Whether Idaho will be is not so certain, but the Wilson men think the same influences that have stirred Democratic opinion along the Pacific coast to be for Dr. Wilson will sway Idaho.

In the south there is no question that Wilson has lately been gaining. He has been making many inroads in the Champ Clark strength there, to say nothing of the Harmon strength. Georgia, Virginia, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky, North Carolina and Florida are said to be almost certain to line up for Wilson.

The recent letter of Senator Gore makes it practically certain that Oklahoma will be for Wilson.

When it comes to the east, Wilson is going to have a good hold there. The fact that Senator O'Gorman, of New York, is a Wilson man is going to weigh much with the Democrats of that state.

In the progressive states of the middle west, Wilson may reasonably hope for a large following. This is due to the fact that Bryan is friendly to Wilson and to the fact that the west has come to look on Wilson as progressive.

Nomination Not "Clinched."

While Wilson is making progress in his campaign to capture the presidential nomination, this does not mean that he has the nomination in his grasp, that he has, in the words of the immortal T. Roosevelt, the nomination "clinched."

The Clark supporters are active, and they are quite certain the next convention is going to recognize the services of Mr. Clark as speaker of the house. And the Harmon supporters are also extremely active. Indeed, there is evidence that the Harmon forces have done a surprising lot of gumshoeing about the country and have got all manner of Democrats hitched to the Harmon chariot by pledges.

Elevator Falls; Man Killed.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 29.—Nicholas Miller was killed and Frank Blakeslie fatally injured when the elevator at the Flatiron hotel, this city, fell from the roof of the building to the pit. Blakeslie and Miller were repairing the elevator when the accident occurred.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

Atlantic City was selected as the next meeting place of the supreme lodge, Knights of Honor, at Mobile.

E. D. Cowan was struck by lightning and killed at his home, in Covington, Pa., while his son was stunned, but not seriously injured.

Charged with robbing post-offices at Hedges and Junction City, Ky., John Tillman was arrested in Lexington when he flashed a roll of postage stamps.

Knocked off the steps of a vestibule car by a bridge, Henry R. Conkling, of New York, nephew of the late senator, was killed and William E. Henzel fatally hurt near Moundsville, W. Va.

Coney Island, New York's great playground, suffered the worst fire in its history, when "Dreamland" and four squares adjoining were destroyed at a loss of more than $3,000,000. Booths, restaurants, hotels, moving picture shows and other private amusements outside "Dreamland" park were destroyed in the fire which burned over one-third the entire area of the big amusement resort.

Right Rev. Edmund F. Prendergast, for more than a decade auxiliary to Archbishop Patrick John Ryan, is now Archbishop of the see of Philadelphia. The appointment was announced by Pope Pius X., and the news reached the head of the archdiocese just after he had ordained to the priesthood twenty-two young men, the largest number ever taken into holy orders in the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul.

GLASS EYE EXPLODES

Artificial Optic Cracks Like a Pistol and Injures Wearer.

Allentown, Pa., May 29.—Building Inspector Frank R. Minner was the victim of an accident the cause of which physicians were unable to explain, having never heard of a similar occurrence.

Inspector Minner met with a mishap twelve years ago which resulted in the loss of an eye, and since then he has been using a glass one, which he changes every year.

While Minner was engaged in conversation with a man at his office in the city hall, the glass eye suddenly exploded with a report like that of a pistol shot.

Minner fell over dazed, and his companion was at a loss to know what had happened until blood began to spurt from the inspector's eye. A physician found the socket of the eye badly lacerated, and it is feared that particles of glass penetrated the brain, in which event serious results are feared.

One physician advances the strange theory that the eye was made of celluloid instead of glass, and that the natural heat of the body caused it to explode.

Golf Shoes, Size 11, For Taft.

Brockton, Mass., May 29.—President Taft will soon be presented with a pair of golf shoes. The shoes are being made from measurements at a factory here. They are size 11, EE width.

VIGOR ALL ESSENTIAL.

Blood will tell.

Yes, "blood is thicker than water" every time.

100 just bet you've got to have red corpuscles yourself to succeed, and when it comes to working out problems in flesh and blood to breed bountiful birds you must have blood lines of vigor back of your breeders to produce poultry perfectos.

"You can't squeeze blood out of a turnip."

You can't make something out of nothing.

"Like begets like."

Take the sassy gamecock.

Where is there a more muscular, crafty crackerjack?

He's all springs; he can crack a board with his spurs; he crows a defiance to the world.

And what a history!

A GAME OLD SPORT.

means, Aristophanes, Pliny and Plato to the present, his history is traced as the champion of the world, as a prince of pure pedigree, and as he cracks his wings together today he seems to say: "Breeds may come and breeds may go but I go on forever."

He is still game.

Game in the records of China before the Christian era, game on the vases of Pompeii, game on the coins of Greece and Rome, game to the name and today the same, "the survival of the fittest" in strength, purity and breed characteristics.

Why? Because selected for over thirty centuries for vigor and blood, and this basis must underlie every breed to survive and to beget strong offspring.

"The cock is half the pen" is general opinion.

Let it be remembered, then, that he is not the whole show by those who think that a good male mated to any kind of a flock will so cover up weak nesses on the female side that the issue will be bon ton.

To beget strong layers, male and female must spring from vigorous, pure bred laying ancestry.

To beget big, beautiful market fowls of fine flesh, rounded shape, uniform size and color, the parents must spring from stock with such characteristics.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

At a recent rot and spot trial in Philadelphia a cold storage packer declared that 30 per cent of the rots and spots must be charged to the farmer's bug house methods of nesting his hens and caring for their eggs. Is this all rot or not?

The Missouri legislature recently made a grant of $33,500 for poultry experiments and furnished empire coops for the annual state poultry shows. This state leads the country in poultry products and is encouraging her fanciers to keep her on top. May her tribe of boosters and roosters in crease.

It is surely a wise plan to count your hens often. While the majority of chicken thieves steal a big bunch, there is also a bird burglar who steals for his own table. The few fowls he takes for his Sunday dinner aren't missed from a big flock for a long time after his depredations begin unless count is kept.

Petaluma, Cal., is agitating a world's poultry show, to be held at that place during the great exposition at San Francisco. Petaluma is the great poultry metropolis of the world and deserves the honor.

Ducks are not partial to palaces; but, like human quacks, they can't sleep with cold feet. Therefore have a dry floor in your duck house and keep it covered with dry litter.

A beekeepers' institute held in Utica, N. Y., declared the honey crop of the United States to be $20,000,000 and beekeeping more profitable than hens, as they furnish their own feed and take little care. Biddy's return is $1,000,000,000 per year, and we confess it requires brains and grains and laying strains to get such gains.

Ten per cent, or $100,000,000, is lost annually on poultry and eggs in this country because packers and dealers use poor packing methods.

The hens of this country now lay 225,000,000 dozen more eggs than they did twelve years ago and with proper encouragement will do more.

The Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Lancaster county, Pa., has notified farmers and dealers in poultry to quit the practice of tying the legs of poultry. You, of course, are not guilty of such an inhuman practice.

GRAY HAIR WILL MAKE YOU LOOK OLD

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and Your Gray Hair Will Quickly Vanish.

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will effect the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients which makes a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out and makes it beautiful.

Rheumatism in Joints

Pain Disappears and Swelling Vanishes in a Few Days

That's what happens if you use Rheuma the new discovery that The People's Drug Store sells on the money back if not cured plan. There's a whole lot of Rheumatism in Gettysburg, and if you know any sufferer, call his attention to this generous offer.

Rheuma is a quick acting prescription. You'll know your Rheumatism is leaving you 24 hours after you take the first dose. It starts to dissolve the Uric Acid at once and drive it from its lodging places. Mrs. Alice A. Brown, Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "For seven years I suffered greatly with Rheumatism in my hip; at night was scarcely able to sleep. Less than one bottle of Rheuma cured me."

[That sounds marvelous, but Rheuma does marvelous things. Fifty cents a bottle at The People's Drug Store. Mailed by Rheuma Co., Buffalo, N. Y.]

Foot Torture

Rub on Ezo and the Pain and Burning and Aching will Vanish.

Foot misery is now a thing of the past. It matters not how sore your feet are, or how swollen or painful, one rub with Ezo will make them feel fine and comfortable.

The People's Drug Store is the agent for Ezo in Gettysburg and every reader of the Gettysburg Times who has any foot troubles ought to get a twenty-five cent jar to-day.

Ezo is a different foot remedy; it is a refined ointment which is quickly absorbed by the pores and soothes and heals the inflammation. It quickly takes the agony out of corns and bunions and makes the feet strong.

Ezo is a good thing to have on hand at all times, nothing better for smarting chafing or itching skin. For use after shaving, for burns, sunburn, rough hands, eczema, blackheads and redness of the nose. Ezo. 25 cents at The People's Drug Store.

Nasal Catarrh

Mrs. E. Karberg Says it is Easy to Get Rid of

"A bad case of catarrh was cured for me by the use of HYOMEI. The trouble affected my head, nose and eyes, and was very annoying and disagreeable, and the cure, from the use of HYOMEI, was very gratifying. HYOMEI has from me a strong recommendation and endorsement." Mrs. E. Karberg, 213 Kingsley St., Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16, 1908.

HYOMEI (pronounced High-omee) cures catarrh, because it gets where the germs are, and destroys them. It is made of Australian eucalyptus, mixed with other healing antiseptics. When breathed over the irritated membrane, it gives relief in two minutes.

Used regularly for a few weeks it will build up and heal the germ infested membrane and drive out catarrh.

If you own a small Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of HYOMEI at drug stores everywhere, or at People's Drug Store for only 50 cents. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, the price is $1.00. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup or sore throat, or money back.

RYAN HITS AT OIL DECISION

Democratic Leader Defines "Proper" Accumulation.

ADDRESSED U. OF P. STUDENTS

Declares There Should Be a Code of Laws to Regulate Wealth and Put an End to the Power of Money.

Philadelphia, May 29.—Rapping the Standard Oil decision of the supreme court by the declaration that what was formerly called "stealing" was now qualified by a distinction between "unreasonable" and "reasonable," William Jennings Bryan addressed the students of the University of Pennsylvania in Weightman hall upon the subject of the "Accumulation of Wealth."

Taking as his text, "The Price of a Soul," and following it up with the biblical quotation that "Money is the root of all evil," Mr. Bryan declared that the love of money was the temptation that endangered more souls than any other form of sin.

Raps Court.

He declared that no individual or corporation had a right to accumulate or earn more than was a fair measure in return for what service they rendered society, and added significantly:

"Accumulating more used to be called stealing, but later decisions declare that there is a distinction between unreasonable and reasonable accumulation.

"There should," continued Mr. Bryan, "be a code of laws for the regulation of wealth that would put an end to the power of money and the power of the individual to accumulate vast sums of money that should be scattered about the country.

"There may be many who do not agree with me in this, but I am confident that in the future you will all see it as I do."

The code of laws suggested by Mr. Bryan were given in the form of question and answer, the first one being:

"How much money can a man rightfully collect from society?"

"The answer to this," said Mr. Bryan, "is no more than he honestly earns, and the amount he can honestly earn is not more than fairly measures the value of the service he does for society.

"There is no exception to that rule, and any man who collects more money than that is violating the code that should prevail.

"Great organizations like the Y. M. C. A. that enlarge the power of the individual are the ones who aid society at large. Those who enlarge their own power are the enemies of society and put the first temptations in the path of the souls of men."

Payment in Advance.

"As to inheritance, that should provide no exception, for the money received, if fair, should stand as payment for services rendered or should be looked upon as payment in advance for services to be done, and the man who inherits great wealth should in consequence be the man whose duties toward society are the heaviest.

"In the United States we generally have a clear construction of the dignity of labor, but there is room for improvement. Public opinion never will be what it should be until the badge of disgrace is put on the idlers, however rich."

Mr. Bryan then went in to the question how much money a man can accumulate legitimately during a life time. He said there is one man worth five hundred million dollars, and if this money was acquired honestly he must have rendered fifteen million dollars worth of service each year.

FIGHTS BEAR BARE HANDED

Drink-Crazed Fisherman Was Being Hugged to Death When Saved.

Seattle, Wash., May 29.—John Johnson, a giant fisherman, at Seldovia Alaska, became crazed from drink and attacked a three-year-old Kodiak bear that was stealing his fish.

The half-crazed man challenged the bear to a fight and Bruin accepted. The first round was decidedly the bear's, for three ribs were caved in Johnson's side. This seemed to infuriate the big fisherman and he went after the bear with his fists.

Before distant fishermen and long-shoremen could reach the scene of the fight Johnson had pummeled the big Bruin until both the bear's eyes were closed. The bear was gradually getting a squeeze hold on Johnson, however, and had it not been for timely intervention the fisherman would have been killed.

The bear met a match in tenacity and was so blinded and exhausted that he was the easy victim of a man with a long bladed knife. Johnson was brought here for treatment at a local hospital.

With Bedtick She Fires Mine.

ROLAND GARROS.

Contestant in the Paris-to-Rome Air Race.

© 1911, by American Press Association.

AVIATORS START 1300-MILE RACE

One American in Paris to Rome Flight.

Paris, May 29.—Nothing equalling the Petit Journal's Paris-Rome-Turin aeroplane contest for a prize of $100,000, which started here, has yet been seen.

Within fifteen minutes from the appointed minute of starting ten of the competitors got away and within an hour twelve had started on the 1300-mile flight. The understanding was that the first to arrive at Nice would win the first stage prize.

Garros was the first away, determined to offset the bad luck he had in the Paris to Madrid contest. Beaumont Conneau, the French navy lieutenant, who in the Paris to Madrid race started under the name of Andre Beaumont, was the second to start.

Conneau reached Dijon, 165 miles away, at 11.21, and Garros arrived at 11.40. Conneau arrived at Lyons, 275 miles distant from the starting point, at 3.28, followed by Garros at 4.02.

Henry Weymann, the only American in the race, started flying the Stars and Stripes. His rapid Nieuport machine left far behind Frey's Morane, though Frey got away shortly before Weymann. Weymann came down at Bedford, fifty miles from the start, because he was short of gasoline. He expects to restart. All the veteran aviators were present, among them Bleriot, Farman and Latham. It was noticeable, however, that the tempting prizes had failed to attract them from the more profitable field of commercial aviation.

MOTOR BOAT SUNK IN CRASH

President's Yacht In Fatal Collision on Potomac River.

Washington, May 29.—President Taft visited the apartment of Alexander Yellowless, who was drowned in the Potomac river as the result of a collision between the government dispatch boat Dolphin and the motor boat Culprit Fay, in which Yellowless, with two companions, was riding.

Miss Helen Taft, the president's daughter, was on board the Dolphin when the accident occurred, and the president desired personally to offer his condolences to the dead man's relatives. Upon calling at the apartment, however, he learned that Yellowless had no relatives in Washington. The president then caused orders to be issued to the police and to the navy yard officials to see that everything possible was done to recover the body and to care for it afterward.

Later the president called upon John G. Lindsay, owner and one of the occupants of the motor boat, and expressed his sorrow at the loss of the motor boat, which is now at the bottom of the river.

The motor boat, Lindsay says, was just passing the ferry slip at Alexandria when the Dolphin was seen looming up ahead. A sailor on board the Dolphin shouted a warning, but it was too late. The dispatch boat struck the Culprit Fay a glancing blow and shattered the frail craft, which sank almost immediately. Lindsay and W. H. Butler were able to swim and keep afloat until aid reached them from the Dolphin. Yellowless, however, was not a swimmer and sank.

Wife, 13, Sues For Divorce.

Chicago, May 29.—Chicago's would-be divorcee, Mary Grand Orlando a divo, thirteen years old, filed a bill in the circuit court asking for an order annulling her marriage with Domeno Lacivito, a man twice her age. In her bill she declares she did not understand she was being married. She said it was at the request of her mother and Lacivito that she went to the county clerk's office.

The Lawyer's Business.

A Scotsman got himself into some legal difficulty and went to consult a solicitor. After he had heard his client's story the solicitor was still doubtful whether he had got all the facts.

"Now, are you sure you've told me the whole truth?" he asked.

"Ay, oh, ay!" was the reply. "I've told you the whole truth. I thought you'd be better able to put in the lies yourself."

MEXICO WILL PAY FOREIGNERS

Court of Claims to Pass Claims For Damages.

MAY PENSION INSURRECTOS

Better Element of Rebels Will Be Taken Into Government Employ to Be Used to Suppress Brigands.

Mexico City, May 29.—One of the first acts of President de la Barra was the sending of notes to the representatives of aggrieved nations stating that a court of claims would be immediately established for the consideration of demands against Mexico for damages and indemnity arising from the killing of foreigners and the destruction of foreign property.

According to de la Barra, duplicate notes were sent to the embassies of the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Spain and China.

Representations for the recovery of damages may be made through regular diplomatic channels and all speed will be used to bring the claims before the court as soon as compatible with present conditions.

President de la Barra gave assurance of the anxiety of the government to make reparation on all bona fide claims of loss or death. No date is set for the convening of the court, but it is understood that within a month the court will be in session and claims will be considered according to diplomatic procedure.

The second important announcement made by the president was that concerning the disposition of a large part of the insurrecto armies. He is said now to be considering a plan of paying a certain pension to all revolutionaries and a pension to the families of those killed. The better element of the insurrectos are allowed the option of joining the rurales or joining a force that will be used to suppress the brigands throughout the country. A bill authorizing this scheme will shortly be introduced in congress, and a committee of five from the senate and deputies will be appointed to work out the details of reimbursement. De la Barra hopes that this matter will be settled before the holding of the elections, so that no hands of armed and discontented revolutionaries may still exist to the embarrassment of the elections.

Enilio Vasquez Gomez and Francisco Vasquez Gomez, two cabinet members elected from the followers of Madero, arrived here and both will take the oath of office to-day.

The only news of disturbance anywhere in Mexico comes from San Luis Potosi, where the insurrectos under Candido Navarro took possession. Rioting ensued and the rabble, untrained by either insurrectos or federal troops, destroyed the public gardens and broke much glass in the windows of business houses. In a clash between thirteen infantrymen, a detachment of federals and drunken insurrectos, one insurrecto was killed. Order was restored.

"GOT" SCHWAB FOR $140,000

Divorce Suit Against Alleged Gambler Charges Crooked Roulette.

Atlantic City, May 29.—In a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Cecile Marstin against her husband, Almerin Marstin, who, it is charged, conducts a gambling place at 13 South Illinois avenue, the allegation is made that Charles M. Schwab, former president of the steel trust, was mulcted of $140,000 in a single night by the crooked manipulation of a roulette wheel.

Personal service in an action brought by Mrs. Marstin for alimony was made upon Marstin by a representative of Jacob Gordon, a New York attorney retained by Mrs. Marstin. The defendant in the action refused to keep the papers, throwing them angrily to the floor at Young's hotel, where he was located by the process server.

Mrs. Maud L. Keenan, proprietress of Young's hotel, is mentioned as co-respondent in the divorce action brought by Mrs. Marstin.

Not only does Mrs. Marstin assert that Schwab was mulcted out of a fair sized fortune by crooked means, but she declares also that all the games at Marstin's place are crooked and that she stands ready to prove these assertions at the trial of the suit.

DROPS FEDERATION PLAN

British Imperial Conference Turns Down Ward Proposal.

London, May 29.—The imperial conference has turned down the proposal of Sir Joseph Ward, premier of New Zealand, favoring the constitution of an imperial council of state, with representatives of all the self governing British dominions to act in an advisory capacity to the imperial government.

Sir Joseph's proposal met with no support and was withdrawn after a debate lasting two days. The first step in the direction of the federation of the British empire was thus postponed.

The Phantom Wagon Train

By SALLY MENDAM

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911

Shortly before the buffalo disappeared from the western plains I joined a hunting party to get a last crack at this noble game. We took the old freighting road from St. Joseph, Mo., to Denver, on which many a wagon train had passed before the completion of the Union Pacific road as far as Laramie enabled merchants to transport their goods by a much more advantageous route. We had been out but a few days when an old plainsman wandered into our camp. He was the ghostliest chap I ever saw. He looked to be very old—how old we could not tell—and yet he didn't seem to have any home. So far as we could judge, he was an inhabitant of the plains, sometimes living with white men, sometimes with Indians.

One night after the others had turned in I was before my tent sitting with the old plainsman smoking when I heard the creaking of a wagon. It was bright moonlight, and I saw toward the east what appeared to be an old fashioned plains schooner—a wagon drawn by four horses—coming toward us. We were a quarter of a mile from the road on which it was moving—the old St. Joseph and Denver freighting road—so that we got only a distant view of the team.

"I didn't know," I said to the plainsman, "that wagons pass over this road since the railroad has been finished."

"They don't; that's the phantom team."

I laughed incredulously.

"If you'd like to hear the story," he replied, "I'll tell you. But you won't believe it now."

The wagon lumbered along westward and disappeared. The old plainsman told me the yarn.

"One mornin' about twenty years ago a spick and span wagon with a new canvas cover drawn by four shiny horses was ferried across the Missouri river from St. Joe and struck out for Denver. Inside was a family of emigrants. Jim Ringler, the husband and father, drove, while the mother and four children were inside. They were going out to make a home in some of the new territories into which the western world was divided. There wasn't anything about the emigrant, his family, his wagon or his horses that wasn't prosperous looking. He had sold out his business and put the money into this outfit.

"Six months from that I met Ringler movin' south of Colorado Springs. His family didn't look so comfortable, a good deal of the paint was wore off his wagon, and his horses were lean. He said he'd been disappointed in findin' a good place to settle. He'd tried the plains and the mountains. The plains was too low and the mountains was too high. He was lookin' for somethin' intermediate. I recommended the foothills, and he said he'd try 'em."

"Purty nigh a year passed, and I met the Ringler family ag'in in Utah. There wasn't one of 'em that didn't look like a skeleton, there wasn't a bit of paint on the wagon, two of the horses had died, and the other two was skin and bone. He said he was still lookin' for a place to settle, but hadn't found anything to suit him."

"The last time I ever seen Ringler's outfit was after another year had passed. It was on this road. The family had just been murdered by a party of Indians. The wagon was turned upside down, the Indians had taken the horses, and the bodies of Jim Ringler, his wife and children were layin' beside the road scalped. I've seen 'em a good many times since, always on the old St. Joe and Denver road headin' westward. I've often tried to git near enough to 'em to see if they was spick and span like they was when they started or with the spokes rattlin' from bein' dried out as they was when the Indians got 'em."

There was something about the creaking of the disappearing wagon, the story and the old plainsman to make me shudder. As for a real wag on passing over that deserted thoroughfare that had been abandoned for the railroad, it did not seem possible that any emigrant or freighter would take a route so dangerous and so expensive. Yet I could hear the wagon rattle, and, catching a faint view of it in the moonlight, I saw that it was a veritable schooner of the old time. Without a word I said good night to the man who had told me the story and turned in.

In the morning the old fellow was not in camp. He had gone without leave as he had come without invitation.

That day we met some plains people. I told them about our visitor and the story he narrated. They had evidently heard the story before and seemed to believe in its ghostly attributes, for they stood listening to it in a sort of fright. When I had finished they asked me to describe the man who had told it.

"He was tall and thin, with a white beard and hair, a hook nose, not a tooth in his head and glittering eyes, sunk deep in his sockets. He might be any age from seventy to a hundred. There was a scar of a terrible gash he had received right across his cheek."

My listeners scattered in every direction, except one old fellow, who stood shivering and crossing himself.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Great heaven, man, it was Jim Ringler himself!"

A JERSEY COW'S RECORD.

Jacoba Irene Produced Over Half a Ton of Butter in a Year.

A remarkable achievement is that of the Jersey cow Jacoba Irene, 146443, belonging to Mr. A. O. Auten of Jerseyville, Jersey county, Ill. This cow produced in one year 17,253 pounds, or nearly nine tons, of milk and 1,125 pounds of butter. This is an official record, made by a representative of the dairy department of the University of Illinois, and has broken all Jersey records. Only one other cow in the world has a higher record for one year; but, taking Jacoba Irene's average production for four years, she stands absolutely without an equal.

During this year she could have supplied eighty people with the average amount of milk consumed per capita and furnished cream for their coffee besides. This was rich Jersey milk.

A dairy cow to be a success at her profession should give her own weight in milk every month for at least six months. If she is an extra good cow she will do better. Unfortunately, especially with farmers and villagers who keep only from one to three cows, a system of management prevails which in numerous cases practically allows the animals to find their own living, to put up with the cold of winter and the unsated heat of summer and to subsist to a considerable extent only on the natural pasture. There are few parts of the world where this system works favorably. Treat the cows right and satisfactory results will not be looked for in vain.

containing 5 1/2 per cent butter fat and worth, for direct consumption, at least 813 cents a quart, amounting to $653.50 a year. A dairyman would need only four such cows to supply milk for the average sized milk route make him a good living and have an excellent profit besides. If one could be so fortunate as to own ten such cows he could have a nice little income of $6,535 a year.

The 17,253 pounds of milk produced by Jacoba Irene during the year contained 1,465 per cent, or 2,527 pounds of total milk solids. This shows some thing of the perfectly enormous amount of work done by this efficient dairy cow in one year.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by J. W. DARROW, Cashman, N. Y., Editor of the New York State Grange Review

A FARMERS' FIGHT

Canadian Reciprocity Strongly Opposed by the Grange.

The Farmers Do Not Believe They Are Getting a Square Deal at Washington—The Agricultural Press and the Grange Are With Them in Opposing the Treaty.

Kim countered with the old proverb "I will change my faith and my bedding, but thou must pay for it."—From Kipling's "Kim."

The proposed Canadian reciprocity treaty has aroused the American farmers as nothing in years has done. They boldly charge the government with "a change in faith"—the abandonment in this instance of the protective principle—and into the mouth of President Taft they daringly put Kim's words as in imagination addressed to themselves. "But thou must pay for it."

"It is not a theory with our farmers," remarks one agricultural paper, "it is a condition—a ruinous, a suicidal condition—that is involved in the giving of our markets to foreign farmers, who bear none of our financial burdens and have no claim upon us for so great a gift as unfettered admission to our markets." And another agricultural journal, the Rural New Yorker, states the case as follows: "We believe the farmers of this country are ready for a fair revision of the tariff. But for this attempt to rob them they would probably have been willing to let their so called leaders go ahead and revise it. Now we rejoice to say they will do their best to halt these leaders and tie them right up to the rack." Strong words, these, that cannot be misinterpreted.

The National Grange.

The national grange is also strenuously opposed to Canadian reciprocity as the treaty would have it. Through its national legislative committee the great Order of Patrons of Husbandry made itself felt at Washington at the close of the Sixty-first congress in this matter, and the committee has again resumed the role of guardian of farmers' interests at Washington. The grange from Maine to California is discussing very seriously this, to the farmers, very serious question, and the town, county and state organizations are using this relatively new subject for debate in their grange meetings, and resolutions against the treaty are in nearly every instance adopted.

The national grange legislative committee is composed of the following members: Ex-Governor N. J. Bachelier of New Hampshire, master of the national grange; Hon. Aaron Jones, master of Indiana state grange, and Professor T. C. Atkeson, master of the West Virginia state grange. When these gentlemen, with forty others from various states, first appeared before the senate committee on finance National Master Bachelier made a brief address, concluding with the following words: "We are here to serve notice that the farmers are united on this question and are determined if duties on farm products are reduced the duties on manufactures must follow. This is not a threat; it is a simple statement of fact." Another representative of the committee, Hon. Aaron Jones of Indiana, said: "As a believer in the protective policy I am unable to comprehend the amazing action of those high in authority who have been responsible for this reciprocity scheme. Is it possible that they believe that 6,000,000 farmers will tamely submit to free trade in farm products and high tariff on manufactures? If so I wish to state here and now that we have come to the parting of the ways." These opinions will serve to show the temper of the leaders of the great farmers' Order approaching 1,000,000 members and representing the vital interests of the other 5,000,000 farmers of the country as well. It reminds us somewhat of that other rebellion of the yeomanry of New England over the question of "taxation without representation" when certain boxes of tea were unceremoniously dumped into Boston harbor as an object lesson. Now the yeomanry of the farms of not only New England, but the entire Union, are aroused in support of the principle of "protection for all or protection for none," and it is not difficult to predicate their action a little later on if their rights are not respected by the party in power. Something besides tea will go overboard.

Should now a square deal reciprocity treaty finally be the outcome of the present agitation, so that other industries than farming should sustain their respective shares of the burden which would necessarily fall upon them from removal of certain duties from imported articles and products, the grange would feel that it had rendered another decidedly important service to the American farmer.

J. W. DARROW.

Old Time Relics.

There is scarcely a homestead in the country among the older settlers that wouldn't reveal on careful search curios of olden times that would make an interesting exhibit for an evening's discussion at the grange. The young people would be especially interested in such an exhibition.

Expecting Too Much.

"A rather finicky old chap who was traveling off the beaten paths struck a somewhat shabby hotel, which was principally used by workmen from a nearby construction camp. He paid a dollar in advance for room and breakfast, the clerk remarking caustically that 'a suit case isn't a guarantee that the bill will be paid, especially when a guy has a room on the second floor.' And just before midnight the indignant Mr. Smith plied down into the hotel office, almost dressed.

"What's the matter?" asked the sleepy clerk, shifting his pipe to the other corner. "Anything wrong?"

"Wrong!" gasped Mr. Smith, trembling. "Wrong! Confound your old dump, anyhow! I saw a pair of rats as big as hedgehogs fighting in the middle of my room."

"Huh," said the clerk, closing his eyes and preparing to return to sleep. "What do you want for a dollar—a bullfight?"—Herbert Corey in Cin-Tin-Tin Times Star.
